Editorial

The Journal of global, public and one health (JGPOH)

JGPOH is devoted to a global upstream health perspective, to analyzing population health and public health systems and to planetary and One Health. We start a new approach oriented on Global Health Justice (1) and the Decolonization of our planet, the endangered earth.

We all begin to realize how central is a global perspective to beware the well-being of our children. The disadvantaged and marginalized global south - our human fellows in large parts of Africa, Asia and South-America, the diminishing animal populations, the survival of the green vegetation, the polluted waters, the warming atmosphere, all-together the five key elements of survival (2), they are all at heightened risk.

The trajectories have met!³

Blackish purple
A ribbon of clouds
Drenched in blood -
Between the horizons
The edges darken
Ashes of our Existence
Lost we've learned
In hellish Courts
Where from we are
An extraneous God
His face unmoved
Presides as chair -
His angels far
Did ever he Sent them to us
My tears are blown
In the wind
Under the sand
Astral rocks half-hidden

Our approach: We transcend a narrow scientific publication concept and accept - in addition to classical scientific contributions in (American) English - different languages together with an English translation and we accept in addition to classical research and review articles also experience-based case studies, short reports and viewpoints.

Your contributions are welcome!

Die Trends haben sich getroffen³

Tiefrot
Ein Wolkenband
Getränk mit Blut -
Quer zwischen den Horizonten
Die Ränder verdunkelt
Asche unserer
Existenz
Verloren haben wir erfahren
In Hoellen des Gerichts
Woher wir sind
Ein fremder Gott
Unbewegten Gesichts
Uebernahm den Vorsitz -
Seine Engel fern
Hat er sie je
Zu uns geschickt
Meine Tränen verweht im Wind
Halbverborgen im Sand
Sternengestein
